Hugh Moore Park Signage Enhancements

SUMMARY

In 2017, the City of Easton completed a complete rehabilitation of Hugh Moore Park. This signage grant was able to add “You are Here” map signs and a variety of directional signage to assist park visitors in locating the various amenities throughout the park including the National Canal Museum, the Josiah White Canal Boat, dog park, playground, and bicycle park.

PARTNERSHIP IS KEY

The City of Easton had as its partner the Delaware and Lehigh National Heritage Corridor

CHALLENGE

High Moore Park is a large park area that offers a wonderful array of amenities and recreational opportunities. However, prior to this project there did not exist a coordinated system of signage to direct pedestrians and motorists to get to their desired location.

SOLUTION

With the help from the Delaware and Lehigh National Heritage Corridor Inc. the City of Easton was able to design and create directional and wayfinding signs that can now be used by patrons of High Moore Park

RESULTS

We are now able to better serve the park by providing enhanced directional and wayfinding signage for visitors to more easily identify and locate the recreational amenities that they may be seeking
